Sydney Godolphin and Sydney Cove – two old mines, the former situated half a mile SW of Germoe and the latter (now occasional visible on Praa Sands beach) on the coast about a third of a mile S. of the other. There are no known plans.

The lodes course about east south east; there is a line of old shafts with a similar trend in Sydney Godolphin set, passing ~400yds N of Lower Pentreath and Pengersick Castle. Some were capped on Praa Sands Holiday Park when Haulfryn took over the site.

In 1838/39 Sydney Cove Mine produced 350 tons of 7.5% copper ore; in 1853 and from 1886 to 1889, Sydney Godolphin Mine raised 91 tons of black tin (cassiterite?) and 15 tons or arsenic.
